

Spiritual Counseling

In 1978, during a transformational training, I made a commitment. It wasn't a heroic, overly generous or challenging decision. It was just what there was to do. I think there are moments in one's life when an authentic commitment is driven from G-d, divine source, divine spirit, higher self (whatever you may call it) I had a purpose in life, I was here to transform the lives of others or at least to contribute to them so they were able to transform their lives and fulfill their destiny.

Each of us has a soul print – our own special contribution to make to others in this lifetime. Once there is some sense of what that is, the adventure has just begun, for that discovery is definitely not the destination. Rather it's just the beginning of the journey – and most likely it will be a challenging, sometimes bumpy, sometimes joyful and other times painful, but definitely interesting adventure, at least it was for me.

Along with the commitment to fulfill one's destiny in this lifetime comes an invitation to explore and/or become aware of anything that may be getting in the way and to either eliminate it or include it so less and less has the power to get in the way of your doing what you're here to do and contributing what you are meant to contribute. If you've come to this site most likely it is time for you to be fulfilling your destiny – it's an idea whose time has come.

What spiritual counseling is:

A relationship offering counseling support with a spiritual orientation.
It may include counseling people regarding their spiritual concerns.
It may include the use of spiritual or metaphysical perspectives
It is designed to help the client come home to their true Self

Through spiritual counseling you will:

Discover who you really are.
Accept and value yourself absolutely
Think about being happy for no reason
Become clear about your purpose in life
Change your thinking, change your speaking, change your future.
Come to know that you are divinely sourced and perfect, whole and complete just as you are.
Σ Shine your light and make a difference for others.

If you have a deep longing to discover what is imprinted in your soul – and you have a sense that the true meaning of your life and its purpose is calling to you. If you just “know” that there is something you are meant to learn about who you really are, the discovery of which will transform the quality of your life and your experience of living forever – if there is an emptiness that hungers to be filled, then spiritual counseling may be right for you.

If you would like to be:

- Listened to
- Dealt with gently, tenderly and sensitively and honestly
- Respected
- Accepted
- Empowered
- Taught
- Appreciated and valued
